SUSTAINABLE FARMING - PRINCIPLES AND PRACTICES

ABOUT THE COURSE

Farming using sustainable practices for better environment protect, restore and promote sustainability; improved nutrition and moving toward ending food crisis. Farming has been one of the ancient occupations across the globe and has substantially contributed to economic progress of nations. However, due to improper farming practices have left the soil and water contaminated and are no longer sustainable in nature. This project aims to develop a course which will highlight and give an insight on the available technologies which can be used sustainably but due to lack of awareness people are not using the same. This course would be designed and focused to inform, and create awareness on recent advancement which will motivate the current generation of farmers and people alike to move towards an ecological sustainable approach. This will induce any youngsters to take up farming as not only a source of income, but also attain a better state of living. This would help to further update and upgrade the method of farming which will be sustainable to the environment.
