Activity Name

Library awareness program

To create a compelling library awareness program that speaks to the needs, goals, and interests of their community, DLLE participants were urged to use both their creative and strategic thinking. The program's originality and efficacy, the caliber of the marketing materials, and the quantifiable results attained in terms of increasing public awareness and library engagement were taken into consideration.

Objective:

The objective of a library awareness program for students is to promote the understanding, utilization, and appreciation of libraries as valuable resources for learning, research, and personal growth. The objective is to create awareness about the services, facilities, and benefits offered by libraries and encourage students to make effective use of these resources throughout their academic and professional journeys.

Outcomes:

Through the library awareness program, students will gain a comprehensive understanding of the resources and services available in libraries. They will learn about the various types of materials such as books, journals, databases, e-books, and multimedia resources.

Students will develop information literacy skills through the library awareness program. They will learn how to effectively locate, evaluate, and use information from library resources. They will be introduced to research techniques, citation practices, and critical evaluation of information sources.
