OBJECTIVES

1. Street plays aim to raise awareness about social issues, such as gender inequality, discrimination, environmental concerns, or any other relevant topic.
2. Street plays often seek to educate the audience about specific subjects or challenges. They provide information, facts, and perspectives that may be unfamiliar to the general public.
3. Street plays can be a powerful tool for influencing behavior. They aim to challenge existing beliefs, attitudes, and behaviors and promote positive changes.
4. Street plays aim to inspire and empower individuals to take action.
5. While addressing serious issues, street plays also aim to entertain and engage the audience through artistic expression.

OUTCOMES

1. Street plays are effective tools for raising awareness about various social issues such as health, hygiene, environmental conservation, gender equality, literacy.
2. Through compelling narratives and visual representations, street plays can influence audience behavior positively.
3. Street plays provide opportunities for NSS volunteers to interact directly with the community.
4. Participating in street plays can empower NSS volunteers by honing their communication, teamwork, and leadership skills.
5. Street plays have the potential to spark conversations and catalyze social change.
6. Successful street play acts may attract the attention of local organizations, government agencies, or NGOs interested in similar causes.
7. Street plays encourage creativity and innovation among volunteers as they devise scripts and choreograph performances.

Report on Street Play 2019-20

On January 17, 2020, a vibrant and impactful "Street Play Act" program was organized at SDSM College, Palghar. This event, spearheaded by the B.Sc. Nursing students of J.J. College, aimed to utilize the medium of street plays to disseminate important messages regarding health and hygiene to the NSS volunteers and the wider community.

The event began with an opening address by the organizers, highlighting the significance of the program in promoting health awareness and community engagement. The organizers expressed their gratitude to all participants and emphasized the role of NSS volunteers in driving positive change.

The centerpiece of the event was the series of captivating street play performances enacted by the B.Sc. Nursing students.

NSS volunteers actively participated in these sessions, sharing their insights and experiences related to the themes presented in the street plays.

The event witnessed strong collaboration between the B.Sc. Nursing students of J.J. College and SDSM College, reflecting the spirit of partnership and cooperation in promoting community well-being. The joint efforts of both institutions contributed to the success of the program and underscored the importance of collective action in addressing social challenges.

In conclusion, the "Street Play Act" program organized on January 17, 2020, at SDSM College, Palghar, by the B.Sc. Nursing students of J.J. College was a resounding success. Through creative performances, interactive sessions, and collaborative efforts, the program effectively achieved its objectives of raising awareness about health-related issues and promoting community engagement.

The event was conducted under the direction of Assistant Professor Bhushan Bhoir.
