Pulse Polio Immunization campaign

Objectives

1. To reach children who have missed routine immunization.
2. To raise awareness among the underprivileged on the importance of polio drops

The Context

The Pulse Polio campaign is a vaccination program aiming at the elimination of polio. It is a government campaign. As per the schedule, the rural hospital cadets carried out this immunization practice.

The Practice

The officials and medical staff from the rural hospital, Palghar gave guidance to cadets for carrying out this immunization. As per their instructions, cadets gave oral doses of polio to children under the age of 5 years. Cadets went door to door for this campaign and took care that no child left taking doses from the locality they have given. On this occasion chief medical officer Dr. Gavit and his medical staff were present.

Outcomes

1. Pulse Polio Immunization campaigns have helped increase immunization coverage, ensuring that all children under the age of five receive the polio vaccine.
2. Helped raise public awareness about the importance of polio vaccination and the risks associated with the virus. This has helped encourage parents to ensure their children receive the vaccine and promoted the importance of routine immunization.
