"Granth Aaplya Dari" The Special Initiative By R. H. Save Library, Sonopant Dandekar College Palghar During The Covid-19 Pandemic Lockdown Of The Rural Students.

Objectives:

- 1. To connect many general readers with R. H. Save Library
- 2. To provide door-to-door library reading Material to College Students and users of rural areas.
- 3. To facilitate the reading material required for the students to their home so that students may keep reading throughout the pandemic
- 4. To encourage general readers and students to optimum usage of library resources.

In Context:

Corona (Covid-19) virus has spread all over the world. This effect was seen in all areas related to humans. Millions of people lost their lives and the social, economic, and human health consequences were enormous. Taking this into consideration, the Government of India announced a nationwide lockdown. The government had to extend the lockdown from time to time to prevent infection and outbreaks. Many family and social problems have also arisen due to the prolonged shutdown of industries. All this had an impact on the education sector as well. The student suffered an academic loss. Due to the closure of colleges, schools or all educational institutes in the field of education, business education, medical, and agriculture education for a long time, society and the country have suffered a loss in exchange for the students. In the meantime, many educational institutions have tried to provide online education, and they are continuing even today, but many difficulties have arisen in providing such education to rural and urban poor students.

Palghar district is a tribal-dominated district. Most of the college students in this district live in rural and remote areas. Due to the closure of colleges and libraries, endless difficulties were created in the educational process of the students. Lack of reading materials, lack of classroom education and lack of Smart Phones and Internet Service due to financial difficulties and irregularity have created the problem of continuity in the knowledge acquisition of general as well as poor and tribal students in rural areas.

Sonopant Dandekar College which is the oldest and largest college in Palghar district is also known as (Palghar College) was closed due to the increased outbreak of Corona. Students studying in this college come from rural and tribal communities. Therefore, Corona had a huge impact on their knowledge acquisition process. Students must get a free reading even during corona infection. If reading materials are not available to the students along with the lectures, the process of knowledge acquisition cannot be completed, so keeping in mind the difficulty of the students, the principal of the college, Dr Kiran Save, Vice Principal Prof. Mahesh Deshmukh Form the concept and coordination of Sheela Godbole Paikarao, the plan 'Granth Apya Dari' was shaped and this project was started with the help of the library staff after planning in a very short time.

What is the nature of this plan:

Keeping in mind the need for books and reading materials for students in rural areas, the resolution and objective were decided to reach a maximum number of students. An important objective of this project was to go to the village where the college students live and provide them with door-to-door services. An important objective was decided to connect as many general readers as possible with libraries, ideally in rural areas.

Elements to be benefited by the scheme:

- 1. Rural college students
- 2. Readers who love to read in rural areas

Beneficiaries of the scheme:

Students and common readers in rural areas were decided as the main beneficiaries of this scheme. Due to the closure of the public transport system, restrictions on public communication and closure of library services, students were identified as the central element as beneficiary. Due to the availability of necessary books and reading material to the students at their homes, their problem with reading material was solved. Many social problems have arisen in the rural areas during Corona. The availability of books according to reading preferences to the common readers in rural areas automatically restricted free communication in rural areas... In fact, the availability of the necessary reading material and the lack of behavioural measurement became a problem. As public libraries in rural areas were completely closed and there were no newspapers, the readers benefited greatly from the 'Granth Apulya Dari' scheme and stayed at home and contributed to the national cause Helped.

Implementation of the Scheme:

This Scheme was implemented from 28.10.2020 and still working. Employees who live in rural areas were recruited to implement the plan. Each was given 100 books. Along with that, a record book and exchange record book of those books were given. He should go to the college student's home and give whatever reading material he asks for 8 days. The student's need for reading was fulfilled in such a way that the student had to take the book again after 8 days and the umbilical cord was not allowed to break from his education and studies. Students benefited a lot from this scheme. Apart from this, the library staff brought various types of reading such as stories, Novels, dramas, philosophical texts, biographies and anthologies to preserve the interest of reading in that village. On this occasion R. H, Save Library and the rich collection of books in the library have benefited the rich readers of rural areas. Apart from this, readers who could not afford to buy books also benefited. Apart from this, along with the students, the library's collection of over 1 lakh books got a reader. Every reader should get his book, every book the father of Indian librarianship. Dr. S. R. should get a reader Ranganathans principal is truly proven here.

Outcomes:

This scheme, which is very innovative and during the Corona (Covid-19) transition period, went to the doorsteps of students and readers and made them the necessary reading material very successfully, proved to be really useful. This scheme has been helpful for the students of the college village who are unable to step out of their homes and have no other means to study and prepare for the upcoming exams. During the declared government-sanctioned curfew, this scheme has truly maintained the continuity of the student's studies. Also, it has helped to a large extent to maintain the mental stability of the readers in rural areas by cultivating their interest in reading
